TACOMA POWER PARKS

Fun for one and all!

Alder Lake Park makes it easy to answer the call of the wild. Campers can choose between sites in the three campgrounds at Alder Lake Park or drive four miles down the road and stay at the more solitary Rocky Point.

Alder Lake Park offers options for traditional tent campers and RV campers with water, electric, and sewer hookups. Rocky Point Campground, four miles east of the main park entrance on Highway 7, has 25 sites with water and electric hookups.

Alder Lake Park’s group camp area has 35 sites. You can reserve one or more pods of five campsites. The group camp has kitchen shelters with barbecue grills, sinks, electrical outlets, restrooms with showers, and areas for outdoor fun.

Whatever floats your boat.

Boaters will find two boat launches at Alder Lake. The main boat launch, near the entrance to the park, is usable most of the year. The Rocky Point boat launch at the upper end of the lake is usable when the reservoir is at higher elevations.

Overnight moorage is first come, first served at the 20-slip boat moorage dock at the Stacel Point day-use area. Overnight camping on moored boats or saving slips with personal items is not allowed.

Go ahead, make your day.

Two day-use areas in the Alder Lake recreation areas, Stacel Point and Sunny Beach Point, offer unlimited options for fun with swimming beaches, picnic shelters, picnic sites with tables and grills, and restrooms. Stacel Point also has a shower. Kids will enjoy the playground at Stacel Point. Please note that alcoholic beverages are prohibited.

Fishing for fun?

You'll enjoy dropping a line in the lake if you're an avid angler. We plant up to 500,000 Kokanee fry in the lake each spring. It also has largemouth and smallmouth bass, yellow perch, crappie, rainbow, and cutthroat trout.

Best dam view around

When visiting, you must check out the impressive Alder Dam. The 330-foot structure, built in 1945, forms the seven-mile-long lake. View the dam from a marked turnoff point on Highway 7 or Alder Lake Park.
