Beat the heat with these water-saving tips

Outdoor water use can increase significantly during the summer. Reducing water use can help you save money on your utility bills.

- Water early in the day when less water gets lost to evaporation.
- Let your lawn go dormant, and only water it once a month.
- Move your sprinkler around your yard when the kids play in it.

To save more water, clean with a broom instead of a hose, use a commercial car wash, and visit a local spray park rather than running sprinklers.
