Significant Accounting Policies & Unusual Transactions

The auditor should determine that the board is informed about the initial selection of and changes in significant accounting policies or their application. The auditor should also determine that the finance committee is informed about the methods used to account for significant unusual transactions and the effect of significant accounting policies in controversial or emerging areas for which there is a lack of authoritative guidance or consensus.

Our Comments

Management has the responsibility for selection and use of appropriate accounting policies. The significant accounting policies used by the Divisions are described in the notes to the financial statements. Throughout the course of an audit, we review changes, if any, to significant accounting policies or their application, and the initial selection and implementation of new policies.

We believe management has selected and applied significant accounting policies appropriately and consistent with those of the prior year. No unusual transactions were noted.

Management Judgments & Accounting Estimates; Risks and Uncertainties

The board should be informed about the process used by management in formulating particularly sensitive accounting estimates and about the basis for the auditor's conclusions regarding the reasonableness of those estimates.

Our Comments

Management's judgments and accounting estimates are based on knowledge and experience about past and current events and assumptions about future events. We apply audit procedures to management's estimates to ascertain whether the estimates are reasonable and do not materially misstate the financial statements.

Significant management estimates impacting the financial statements are included in Note 2 discloses the Divisions' significant accounting policies: Allowance for doubtful accounts; Unbilled Revenues; Depreciable lives of capital assets; Pension & OPEB Accruals;

Our Comments

The Divisions are subject to potential legal proceedings and claims that arise in the ordinary course of business, which are disclosed in the notes to the financial statements.

The board should be adequately informed of the potential effect of significant risks and exposures and uncertainties that are disclosed in the financial statements

Difficulties Encountered and Disagreements with Management

The board should be informed of any significant difficulties encountered in dealing with management related to the performance of the audit.

Our Comments

No significant difficulties were encountered during our audit.

7

Disagreements with management, whether or not satisfactorily resolved, about matters that individually or in the aggregate could be significant to the financial statements, or the auditor's report.

Our Comments

There were no disagreements with management.

Other Communications

The board should be informed of all significant audit adjustments arising from the audit and should also be informed of uncorrected misstatements aggregated by us that were determined by management to be immaterial, both individually and in the aggregate, to the financial statements as a whole.

In some cases, management may decide to consult about auditing and accounting matters. If management has consulted with other accountants about an auditing and accounting matter that involves application of an accounting principle or a determination of the type of auditor's opinion that may be expressed on those statements, our professional standards require the consulting accountant to check with us to determine that the consultant has all the relevant facts.

Our Comments

Summary of proposed and passed journal entries is presented in the next slide.

Our Comments

We are not aware of any significant accounting or auditing matters for which management consulted with other accountants.
